16.11.2017

The Statistics Poland and Eurostat are pleased to invite you to the European Conference on Quality in Official Statistics (Q2018) which will be held on 26th - 29th June, 2018 in Kraków, Poland.

The Q2018 Conference is a cyclical, already ninth scientific meeting involving the international statistical environment and devoted to methodological and quality-related issues in public statistics, crucial for the development of the entire European Statistical System. Like its predecessors, the Q2018 Conference offers participants a platform for high-level discussions on many diverse quality issues in official statistics, as well as to exchange methods and good practices between experts in different areas from different institutions (statistical offices, international organisations, researchers and academics). The Q2018 Conference aims at presenting different approaches and ideas for implementing the European Statistics Code of Practice, reinforcing the quality of statistics using best international principles and practices and presenting new areas of development for the ESS as a whole.
